

SOUTHERN RAILWAYS WILL LOCATE ALIENS

Anxious to Fall in With Proposals of the Immigration Bureau to Distribute Incoming Population.

Several railroad men called upon Commissioner General Frank P. Sargent, of the Bureau of Immigration, today with reference to the Commissioner's plan to distribute aliens, as fast as they reach the United States, in parts of the country where they are needed.

The conferences were informal. It seems that the Southern and Southwestern railroads are much more anxious to get immigrants than are the Western roads.

Those from the South expressed themselves as wanting as many Italians and other south of Europe men and women as possible in many cases to replace negro labor.

It is said by the railroad men that the planter, the mill man, and the Southern manufacturer, generally, has come to the final conclusion that the negro is not reliable enough, nor intelligent enough to make it possible for the South to distance the North, and that something has to be done to overcome the Northern labor advantage.

"My idea," said Commissioner Sargent this morning, "is to get the immigrants to parts of the country where they can best earn a livelihood for themselves, and at the same time benefit the United States more than they are now doing."

"The trouble is that the majority of immigrants have the habit of sitting down in whatever big city they arrive, get work, and remain there all of their lives. Many have not the means to get out of these cities on their arrival."

"I have such a case before me today. Now if work can be found for these people in other parts of the country where a population is needed, this trouble will be overcome."

Arrangements are being talked over by which, if they come to pass, the railroads may find employment in the town on their systems, or furnish new centers with small farms.

Another conference is to be held next week.
